CROWD ARRIVES EARLY

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 2.—(AP)—The vanguard of an expected crowd of 60,000 moved in on Churchill Downs early this morning as the scratching of Mrs. F. A. B. Widener's Dnieper and W. C. Goodloe's Seventh Heaven reduced the field to 17 for the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby.

Hours before the first race, scheduled for 12:30 P. M. (CST) the unreserved section of the grandstand was packed, and thousands milled around on the flower bordered lawns. Hundreds were waiting to get into the track when the gates opened at 7:30 A. M.

The two miles from the center of the business section to the track was a steady flow of cars. Elaborate traffic regulations kept the traffic moving at a brisk pace, however. But once at the track the fans found the congestion even greater. Seven hundred members of the state militia joined the city police in keeping the crowd in its place.

Periscopes in Demand.
Dispensers of souvenirs did a land office business. Camp chairs could be had for 50 cents but it was almost fatal to offer a dollar bill. The periscope men did a brisk business, especially among those who had been at other derbies, and caught only a fleeting glimpse of the horses as they sped over the one and one-quarter miles.

Weather conditions were perfect. A southern breeze broke up the heat but summer clothes were much in evidence. Many, knowing of past derbies, came prepared with raincoats, umbrellas and top coats, however.

Track Is Fast.
Although a heavy rain fell in the city during the night, there was only a light drizzle at the track. The racing strip, groomed to perfection, was lightning fast. The weatherman predicted local showers for sometime this afternoon but it would take an unusual downpour to make the track muddy.

Kentuckians boast of the fact that it can rain at the Downs any time after 10 A. M. and the track would still have a firm bottom.

Seventh Heaven, the last entered yesterday, was the first scratched this morning. Dnieper was not long in following however, setting at rest unsubstantiated reports that something was wrong with his stablemate, J. E. Widener's Brevity.

Brevity remained the firm choice at 7 to 5 with the odds on the Bomar stable's mud-loving Grand Slam lengthening as it became evident the track would be fast. In casting around for a horse that might beat the Widener bay, the majority of the early arrivals settled on William Woodward's Granville, the star of the trio which James Fitzsimmons will saddle, and Morton L. Schwartz's Bold Venture.

ZIONCHECK IN TROUBLE AGAIN ON HONEYMOON

Shallotte, N. C., May 2.—(AP)—Rep. Marion Zioncheck's honeymoon trip to Florida was interrupted here today by his second arrest within three days for speeding.

Sheriff J. A. Russ of Brunswick county, who made the arrest, said the Washington congressman was making 70 miles an hour over U. S. highway No. 17 when he overhauled him two and a half miles south of here.

Both Zioncheck and his bride, the former Ruby Louise Nix of Texarkana, Ark., who married this week, were brought to the sheriff's office here.

No formal charges were filed immediately. Mrs. Russ, a deputy sheriff, said the office was communicating with Alexandria, Va., police.

"We understand he is wanted there and we may just turn him over to Virginia," she said.

Zioncheck failed to appear in Alexandria yesterday to answer charges to reckless driving and disorderly conduct and forfeited a $200 bond. Judge James R. Duncan of Alexandria ordered him seized under a capias.

HOT WORDS FLY AT MEETING OF COUNCIL FRIDAY

Commissioner Vaile's Opposition to Money Ordinance Cause

Commissioner of the street department Joe E. Vaile dealt out threats and personalities last evening at the city council session on the occasion of the presentation of the amended annual appropriation ordinance. The threats were to the effect that he would resort to a court injunction in an effort to secure an amount which he deemed sufficient to operate his department for the year, and the personalities were dealt directly at the mayor.

The major part of time of the council session was devoted to the harangue which has marked the sessions for two weeks since the introduction of the annual appropriation ordinance. Charges that Mayor Slothower had exceeded his authority were made by the commissioner which brought the reply:

"You have one department to run and will do well by running it."

Later in the session, Mayor Slothower answered the commissioner's charges and said in substance:

Mayor Replies
"I hesitate to answer Commissioner Vaile, but charges made by him need to be explained. The street department in Dixon today has a great deal more money to spend than it did when I was commissioner of streets. In addition to the annual appropriation, at a time when there were largely unimproved streets in the city, today we have many blocks of improved streets under state maintenance and now the gas tax is available."

"I have investigated the street department's expenditures for last year which amounted to almost $22,000. There was the original appropriation of $6,000 and added to this was spent more than $5,000 which was taken from the contingent fund. In addition to these there was the amount of more than $6,000 spent on the fifth street improvement and added to that figure was the sum received for state maintenance."

Assisted Dimick
"I take exceptions to the statements made by the commissioner when he says that he is not in on the workings of the council. His records are on file and are open to inspection at any time. I assisted Commissioner Fred Dimick in the drafting of the appropriation ordinance and our foremost thought was not to spend more than was received and to keep the city out of debt. This will continue to be my policy as long as I am mayor of Dixon. Both Commissioner Dimick and myself have asserted that if a surplus occurred, it would be placed in Commissioner Vaile's department. This council inherited a considerable debt for the very reason that more money was expended than was received."

Ordinary Filed
The mayor then made reference to the expenditure of the sum of $2,100 for the purchase of a tractor for the street department and cited the fact that expenditures amounting to in excess of $500 should be open for bidding. He also called upon City Attorney Martin Gannon for a legal opinion which substantiated his statement. Following this, the mayor stated that arrangement had been made for the purchase of the tractor after consulting the superintendent of streets, to be paid for out of the contingent funds. The argument continued for some time as Commissioner Vaile asserted that other members of the commission were "G men" for the mayor in upholding his plans. In the absence of Commissioner Dimick the council voted to file the much discussed appropriation ordinance, Commissioner Vaile opposing the action.

Mayor Slothower made a brief reply to an article appearing in the People's Column of the Telegraph a few days ago concerning the appropriation for the Dixon public library and proceeded with an explanation of the manner in which the amount is provided.

Orville Westgate of this city was appointed by Mayor Slothower to act as director of the Dixon Civic band for the coming season, the mayor stating that the previous director had become incapacitated. The council with the exception of Commissioner Vaile concurred in the appointment.

Allen Charges FDR Ignores All Danger Signals in Address
Washington, D. C.—Representative Allen (Rep.) Galena, Ill., in a radio address described President Roosevelt as "running past every danger signal and warning sign while the New Deal delays, instead of promotes, economic recovery."

"With a supine and supercilious congress under the domination of the executive," Allen said, "and the realization that before 1940 the chief executive will be called upon, in all probability, to appoint several new members of the Supreme Court, we should pause and consider the consequences of returning the present administration to power."

To Drag Litchfield Lake for Missing Manager of Store
Litchfield, Ill., May 2.—(AP)—Authorities planned today to drag Litchfield lake in a search for George Dasher, 45-year-old chain store manager, who had been missing since Thursday.

A hat identified as Dasher's was found last night near a dam at the lake.

Dasher's wife said she believed her husband an amnesia victim. She said he had been in ill health.

Sheriff Harry B. Blackburn said Dasher apparently had not been seen since he started for his store Thursday night to work on an inventory. Officers said a checkup revealed his books were in good condition. He had managed the store 15 years.

IL DUCE HAS CONFERENCE.
(Copyright, 1936, The Associated Press.)
Rome, May 2.—Premier Mussolini called the Italian supreme naval commission for defense into conference today as his columns in northern Ethiopia prepared for a decisive advance on Addis Ababa.

IL Duce, acting in his official capacity as secretary of the navy, conferred with the principal Italian admirals whom he had summoned to Rome.

While no information was issued officially on the scope or direction of the session, it was understood the Mediterranean situation was thoroughly examined.

Fascist officials earlier, on receipt of reports the Italian advance had been delayed by fresh obstacles, sought to check premature celebrations of the "fall" of the Ethiopian capital.

Provincial leaders of the party were called to the Palazzo Littoria to receive final instructions for a victory "adunata" or mobilization.

The conference on naval affairs was attended by the highest officers of the Italian fleet, including Prince Ferdinando Savoia.

Get Official Report.
The government also received the official daily report of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, which said:

"On the southern front while the enemy is in flight our troops are concentrating the positions reached in order to resume their advance. Numerous chiefs of upper Ogasen province presenting themselves to our military authorities to make acts of submission and offer

HAILE FLEES TO FRIENDLY FRENCH CITY

Disorder Reported in Addis Ababa After Flight

BULLETIN.
London, May 2.—(AP)—A Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from Paris said today the French foreign office has received a telegram from Addis Ababa reporting the sacking of the imperial palace of Emperor Haile Selassie.

The message to the French foreign office confirmed that the emperor joined the empress and other members of the royal family at the last moment on a special train bound for Djibouti.

London, May 2.—(AP)—Sir Sidney Barton, British minister to Ethiopia, advised his government today that Emperor Haile Selassie had left Addis Ababa for Djibouti, French Somaliland.

Sir Sidney declared in a wireless message that the Ethiopian capital is the scene of widespread disorder. The disturbances include shooting and looting, the report asserted.

Sir Sidney said the Negus had left for the French port by train. The departure of the Ethiopian emperor, who personally has led the defending armies, was interpreted in British official quarters as the collapse of organized resistance to the Italian invasion.

Destination Unknown
The ultimate destination of the King of Kings was declared to be unknown to the British.

Emperor Selassie talked with Sir Sidney before his departure. It was stated the British had not invited nor suggested that the Negus attend the meeting of the League of Nations' council at Geneva May 11 when the Italo-Ethiopian question is to be considered.

Immediately upon receipt of the news of the Ethiopian emperor's departure, Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, went to the foreign office to confer with British officials.

It was understood here that the empress and Crown Prince Asfa Wosan accompanied the Negus.

Eden, who remained at the foreign office during the morning, declared he would go to Lexington to attend a dinner in his constituency tonight.

Has King Abducted?
Authoritative sources said no decision had been reached concerning Sir Sidney's activities after the possible occupation of the capital by the Fascist forces.

It was pointed out that he might leave or might be asked to leave. While the emperor's departure was considered a grave development in informed quarters, it was stated that so far as is known in London, the King of Kings has not abdicated.

British officials emphasized that the British legation has taken all precautions to guard the safety of approximately 1,000 of its nationals still in Addis Ababa.

The legation's defended zone, which is also open to foreign nationals, is believed already occupied by refugees from the disorder.

Public Enemy No. 1 is Caught in New Orleans, La.
New Orleans, May 2.—(AP)—Federal bureau of investigation agents who captured Alvin Karpis and two companions here last night said today that a search of the apartment where Karpis resided for about a month with "Ruth" had yielded "plenty."

"We've found plenty," David W. Magee, head of the local federal bureau declared as his men continued to question "Ruth," the pretty "girl in white" who lived with Karpis as his wife, and Fred Hunter, who is wanted for a mail robbery in Garrettsville, Ohio.

Magee refused to go into details as to what evidence had been found in the apartment. He likewise refused details of the surprise springing of the trap in which nearly a score of agents pounced upon Karpis, disarmed and captured him without a fight and then seized Hunter and the girl.

Magee said he did not know the identity of Ruth but that her fingerprints were being checked in Washington in an effort to learn whether she was wanted by the government.

Throughout the night the girl, in her early twenties, was grilled with Hunter in the offices of the bureau of investigation on the third floor of the federal building while Karpis was taken by plane to St. Paul in charge of a group of federal agents.

New Orleans, May 2.—Federal agent whisked Alvin Karpis northward in manacles by airplane today to answer for kidnappings, murder and robbery that made him the nation's most hunted criminal.

The gunman, a survivor of the Karpis-Barker gang, and two companions surrendered without a shot in New Orleans last night to federal raiders in the first arrest ever made in person by J. Edgar Hoover, department of justice chief.

Shotguns, automatic rifles and pistols were leveled by 15 or 20 agents to take the fight out of the youth most wanted for the $100,000 abduction of William A. Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer, June 15, 1933, and the $200,000 kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, six months later.

Karpis lifted his hands and yielded a pistol.

Two Others Arrested
Arrested with him in his motor car near a pretentious Canal street apartment were a red-haired young woman identified only as "Ruth," who had posed as his wife, and Fred Hunter, 37, a suspect in the $34,000 postoffice robbery at Garrettsville, O., Nov. 7, 1935.

Swiftly the agents shackled the hands and feet of the men and took them and the woman to the postoffice building for questioning.

Other officers were posted about the apartment where Karpis had been known as "Ed O'Hara," a mild mannered devotee of fishing. Karpis, who has a criminal record for 10 of his 26 years, was rushed from the postoffice to New Orleans airport at 8:30 P. M. (Central Standard time) and thrust aboard a chartered plane by six guards.

Victims Cheered
Victims of the St. Paul kidnappings were cheered by news of the arrest. Seven of Karpis' associates in the gang dominated by the Late Kate (Ma) Barker are dead and the others are all imprisoned.

The simple statement, "I've got something interesting to tell you," was Hoover's greeting to newsmen an hour after the capture.

"We've captured Alvin Karpis, generally known—but not to us—as Public Enemy No. 1."

Hoover gave the names of the others taken, then said:

"Karpis never had a chance. There were too many guns on him. They were in an apartment and were leaving the house to enter an automobile when the agents surrounded them."

"The agents called upon them to surrender and they were taken without the firing of a shot."

Chained Hand and Foot
Karpis was shackled hand and foot and the shackles themselves were chained together, before he was placed aboard the special plane for the secrecy-shrouded night flight.

His arrest followed two months of concentrated vigilance in New Orleans, Hoover said.

"We've known he's been in and out of New Orleans for the past two months and have been trailing him," he explained. He refused to reveal the source of the "tip" which led to the capture.

WOMAN, SPARED FROM CHAIR, IS DEAD IN PRISON

Dwight, Ill., May 2.—(AP)—A year and 12 days after a last minute commutation saved her from the electric chair, Mrs. Gertrude Puhse, convicted of plotting her husband's murder in Granite City, Ill., in 1934, died in prison here last night.

Mrs. Nell Stewart, assistant superintendent of the model "cottage prison," said Mrs. Puhse had been ill about 12 weeks. Carcinoma of the liver brought her death.

Mrs. Puhse's arrest and conviction, with Thomas Lehne, 44, was one of the crime sensations of 1934 in southern Illinois. William Puhse, her husband, was shot to death in his sleep. Evidence at the trial was that Mrs. Puhse and Lehne plotted Puhse's death to remove him as an obstacle to their illicit love affair.

Both Mrs. Puhse and Lehne were sentenced to die. Lehne was executed in the penitentiary at Chester, but at the eleventh hour Gov. Henry Horner commuted Mrs. Puhse's penalty to 99 years.

A son and daughter came to Mrs. Puhse's bedside yesterday when her illness grew critical, and said today they would take the body to Granite City for burial.

MID-ILLINOIS HIT BY STORM
Hail, Wind, Rain and Lightning Cause Minor Damage There

Jacksonville, Ill., May 2.—(AP)—Sections of several central Illinois counties today cleared away debris and repaired damage caused by two hail, wind and rain storms accompanied by brilliant lightning displays yesterday afternoon and last night.

Trees were blown down, windows broken and telephone and power service impaired but the damage apparently was spotted and not heavy. No injuries were reported.

Jacksonville appeared to be the hardest hit when a brief but heavy wind, rain and electrical storm which struck at 7:40 P. M. A large section of the city was in darkness for one and one-half hours when power service was halted. Several trees were blown down in the southern part of the city.

Other Places Hit.
Heavy wind and rain was also reported at Pittsburg, Tullahoma, Petersburg, Lincoln, Ashland, Virginia, Greenville, Chandierville and Havana.

Pleasant Plains, northwest of Springfield, reported heavy wind, hail and rain. Earl Ray said that all windows in one side of his house were blown or broken out. Windows in buildings southeast of Petersburg also were shattered.

Beardstown reported a heavy rain yesterday afternoon and a severe hail and electrical storm last night.

A number of cities reported temporary telephone service interruptions from wind and lightning.

"THE LITTLE MAN"

By Joseph Fort Newton

THE late Will Rogers said that Charles Chaplin is the only genius in Hollywood. Others have talent, he alone has the divine spark.

One can believe it after seeing his last film "Modern Times", showing us "poor little man," funny, forlorn, fantastic, the victim of his own machines, his harmlessness and helplessness, his absurdity and pathos.

For the first time there is a touch of bitterness in his satire, as he portrays the fatality and futility of our civilization, in which the soul is driven to distraction by noise and crushed by wheels.

The point of the play, half hidden in its funny business, is that the modern world is not fit for a man to live in, but man must go on trying to live in it, because there is nowhere else to go.

The masses, like a flock of sheep led to the slaughter, get caught in the machine, slaves of the Belt, the Boss watching them by television—and are crushed by it. They rebel, but are crushed again.

Life is so speeded up that men do not have time to eat. "They must be fed at work," the Boss says; "no time can be lost, if you want to get ahead." The Boss himself, like everyone else, is caught, too.

While he watches slaves at work he works at a jigsaw puzzle—symbol of the distracting life in which the little tramp is driven insane—the jerk and din and whirl of it get into his soul.

"The film does nothing more than poke fun at the general confusion," Chaplin tells us. His smiling wrath is aimed at machines, capitalism, strikebreakers, welfare officers, and fate—it is life seen through the other end of a telescope. We want to weep, but we laugh.

The only way out of the mess is a country road at dawn, and lovers arm in arm. But even on that road of romance there is a white line dividing the right from the left. Love, too, has traffic rules.

Such is the world of science and industry, distorted in comedy, to be sure, but too true to be good—man a robot, bullied and beaten; life a prolonged toothache—we laugh, but we want to weep!

Augustana Choir Gave Exceptional Concert Last Eve

The Dixon Methodist church was well filled last evening with music lovers from all sections of northern Illinois, to hear the completely satisfying and beautiful concert presented by the justly famed Augustana Choir, whose Director Henry Veld is to be congratulated on the high class performance given.

There were numbers by three separate groups, the women's Jenny Lind Chorus, the Wennerberg Male Chorus and the Augustana Choir, which is made up of the two first named groups.

Such sweetness and precision of tone, such perfect phrasing are cause for much commendation. The applause after each selection was hearty and sustained, showing the entire approbation of the audience. It was a delightful concert, one of the finest ever heard here and the Augustana Choir is an organization far above the ordinary talent.

Miss Doris Beach, accompanist and member of the choir is a Dixon girl.

The following program was presented:

Part I

Du Hirte Israel, Hore (Choral from Cantata No. 104)—(Bach). The Valleys of Dream—(Fletcher). The Lark—(Gretchaninoff). Jenny Lind Chorus. Doris Beach, accompanist.

Part II

New Books at Dixon Public Library

South Riding.—Holtby. An admirable novel about an English small town. Many characters are presented in many situations, all are impressively and touchingly realistic.

Arctic Adventure.—Mr. Freuchen's fifteen adventurous, grim, and comic years in Greenland and northern Canada. Unlike the usual explorer yarn.

Flowers of Evil.—Baudelaire. Competent, frequently brilliant translations, by two highly gifted Americans (George Dillon and Edna St. Vincent Millay) of the writer who translated Poe into French, was the father of Symbolists, and was perhaps the greatest poet of the 19th century.

England Speaks.—Gibbs. Talks with road sweepers, lords and ladies, beggars, etc. Gibbs has that unfortunate mannerism of being unable to mention anything English without feeling impelled to add that this English thing is superior to its foreign counterpart, or else that foreigners fail to appreciate it.

Beyond the Singing Woods.—Bulbransen. It is like the great primitive stories of legendary heroes yet it is a story of the last century dealing with a Norwegian family living in their ancient homestead. The book has stormed every citadel of continental criticism, and has been a best seller in seven countries.

Hoover Administration.—Myers and Newton. In some respects the book reads like the campaign biographies that appear in every year of a presidential election. It is a defense of the Hoover administration less from the historical point of view than from the view of practical politics. Nevertheless it contains documentary material of historical value.

Banned Books.—Haigh. Interesting notes on books that have been banned at various times for various reasons.

My Life and Work.—Adolf Lorenz. The life story of the famous "bloodless surgeon" whose work on cripples has gained him extraordinary recognition all over the world, absolute ovations when he visited the U. S.

Strange Glory.—Myers. A dramatic love story unfolds without a ripple in the lucid prose which, despite its seeming placidity, moves forward constantly as a good play should. The heroine is an heiress who finds in the forest outside New Orleans the two men most influential in her life.

Sparksbroke.—Morgan.—The author of "The Fountain" has raised something of a critical storm. It seems to be a matter of opinion whether the writer is "a fashionable novelist who writes like an archangel," "the greatest living novelist," or just a "writer of novels for ladies." At least they all agree that whatever he says, he says beautifully.

Third Act in Venice.—Sylvia Thompson. Another best seller. Introducing the reader to her handsome Sir Francis Radnor among a gallery of Riviera idlers, she brings him to London into a carefully built-up situation in which he ruins his own chance for happiness. The tragic third act is in Venice.

We the Living.—Rand.—Miss Rand has chosen as a background of her novel the most chaotic period of Soviet history. She shows along with her story that every system of society, including communism, has corruption in its ranks.

Mrs. John N. Weiss is the guest today of Mrs. A. I. Maxwell at the annual luncheon of the Oregon Woman's Club. Mrs. James H. Jackson, former Illinois state chairman of the Literature and Library Extension Dept. of Federated clubs, will be the speaker of the afternoon.

Spring! Bluejays and Swallows!

IT'S spring! Time for youngsters to open mouths wide for sulphur and molasses. But better fare went down the gullets of these three waifs—bluejays orphaned by a falling tree. Their rescue by Mrs. Harry Lang, Hollywood, is an example of bird lovers' solicitude of spring's feathered foundlings.

Grace Church Aid Honors Mothers Day In Program Wednes.

Over fifty members and visitors attended the Ladies Aid meeting of the Grace Evangelical church Wednesday afternoon.

The following program was given in observance of Mothers' Day: Song by all.

Origin of Mothers' Day—Given by Mrs. Guy Robinson. Followed with prayer by Mrs. I. Divan.

Vocal solo, "My Mother's Song"—Miss Mildred Hartman.

Reading, "A Tribute to the Tradition of the American Mother"—Mrs. Norman Griser.

Instrumental duet—Mrs. R. F. Krahler and Mrs. Guy Wulbrandt. Reading, "God's Greatest Gift"—Mrs. Norman Dietrich.

Vocal solo, "One Who Still Loves His Mother"—Mrs. Wilbur Schriener.

Reading, "Ladies Aid"—Mrs. Jack Marshall.

The surprise that was announced turned out to be an old-fashioned spelling bee in which all took part, from which ensued much merriment.

The business session of the Aid was in charge of the president.

To complete the delightful afternoon Miss Esther Barton gave a travel talk on Mexico, which was enjoyed and very beneficial to all present.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, the Mesdames Norman Dietrich, Guy Robinson, Brink, Norman Griser, Vade Pierce, Harold Edous and Wm. Hackbarth.

Miss Thomas Will Give Travel Talk

"Big Business"

By JAMES S. THOMAS

President, Clarkson College of Technology

Even the friends of that sinister "Big Business" are either afraid to commend it, or do not know what to say in its behalf. But there is something to it. It is a very old art and culture has always tagged at its heels, sometimes begging for bread, it is true, but always tagging at its heels. Even the fellows who discovered and brought back the alphabet were traders and Mohammed picked up all from the trading bazaars, as he went from place to place on the camel caravans of the rich widow who afterwards became his wife.

Yes, business is a very old art. Practiced badly at times, but always necessary. Poor old "Big Business" we hear a lot about it these days. It seems to have not a friend left among the very smart people of the country! Not a leg left to stand on.

Well, the first thing wrong with the criticism is that there is no such thing. Business is relatively smaller than it ever was. Today, it is just a name with extreme difficulty meet our cultural demands. A larger proportion of our gross national income now goes for cultural and altruistic purposes than was true of Hamurapi's kingdom more than two thousand years before Christ, or of the great Roman Empire which ruled the world.

I am told that the total income of Rome in the best year Augustus Caesar of the Golden Age of Roman Literature) even had as only five per cent of what New York City's budget was last year. Last year New York City spent $1,200 per minute for every working hour of the year for the cultural things the idealists so philosophy and religion he knew right on the heels of the Peloponnesian Age in Greece came directly upon the heels of the most prosperous period in Grecian economic life. When Greece lost her trading posts in the Mediterranean, her philosophers, poets, artists, and musicians went right out the window.

The Golden Age of Roman Literature came at a time when Rome's commerce was farthest flung. Rome perished because her economic system failed. The Barbarians did not fight their way into Rome. They walked into an empty shell. Rome was dead, economically, and, therefore, dead every way.

The Italian Renaissance came as a result of the fact that Italian business men learned how to take raw materials, convert them into finished products, ship them out to peoples less skilled in the arts of manufacture, and with the profits they hired Angelo, Bramanti, Corregio, Di Vinci, Dante and all the rest. It should be added, too, not always without a lot of hagglng and sometimes definitely unfair dealing on the part of these idealistic "creative artists."

Once we are ready to dispense with business, let us be sure we are ready to surrender our high standards of living and give up our rapidly growing cultural life.

Big culture depends upon "Big Business" because there is no other way to sustain it. A few of the intelligentsia are even now beginning to discover this.

U. S. AGAIN MAY HEED CRY FOR INDEPENDENCE

The good people of Puerto Rico have been wearing expressions of pained surprise ever since Senator Tydings pushed into the Senate hopper a bill which would give them a chance to say whether they wish to be a free and independent nation.

The surprise and pain are out of all proportion to the amount of noise the Puerto Ricans have been making about independence of late. To listen to that talk, one would have thought that the islanders unanimously were groaning under the iron heel of a pitiless despotism. But now that the road to independence is beginning to open, they are protesting that it is a low Yankee trick.

Politics in Puerto Rico seems to be quite as messy as in the United States, if not a little more so; and the politicians have learned that the cruel repression of Uncle Sam is the handiest of all stalking horses in a hot campaign. They have agitated for independence in impassioned voices, assuring their constituents that if the despotic Americans would only get out the millennium would surely dawn.

Senator Tydings proposes to take them at their word.

His bill would provide for a general election on the island, in which the Puerto Ricans could say once and for all whether they want to go their own way.

If they voted for independence, the United States would withdraw after four years. Puerto Rico would get what the Philippines are getting. After a brief transition period, they would become as free as any people on earth.

And, of course, if they voted against independence, the issue would be buried for keeps.

Senator Tydings' plan will strike most Americans as highly sensible. If the people of Puerto Rico want to get out, let them out by all means. If they don't let them stop blaming all their woes on Uncle Sam and get down to the business of facing realities.

As a matter of fact, it is quite possible that as independence actually comes in sight, it will lose its fine glitter. Uncle Sam has been pouring relief money into the island at the rate of $1,000,000 a month. He also has provided a $26,000,000 reconstruction program. Furthermore, the American market is chiefly what keeps Puerto Rico alive.

The native office seeker may make political capital out of American repression so long as independence is only a distant dream. When he gets a chance to make the dream come true, he may start singing a different song.

But whether that be true or not, the Puerto Ricans should have their chance to express themselves. Get the independence issue cleared up once and for all, and the islanders should be a great deal happier.

THREE CENTS AN HOUR

Government research experts have just compiled an exhaustive report on wage scales in America. Shockingly enough, the study reveals that the lowest rate is three cents an hour.

Fortunately, this rate isn't common. The United States is not a nation of three-cent-an-hour workers. Nevertheless, its traditionally high wage scales are not shared unanimously. The preponderance of the population, representing the great purchasing power of the country, manages to get along somehow on considerably less than $2000 a year.

And even that wage, in view of the great wealth of the country, its unlimited resources and its gigantic needs, is certainly none too high.

WATCHDOGS OF FREEDOM

One had only to follow the proceedings of the American Newspaper Publishers' convention, just closed in New York, to realize that "liberty" as Americans visualize it is really in little danger ever of being surrendered here.

For the American editor, tenaciously pursuing the ideals of a free press, free speech and a free country, is a sleepless watchdog when it comes to these human rights. At even the faintest hint of intrusion, he is ready with a warning snarl.

The tone of the addresses and the resolutions endorsed by the New York convention is all the evidence one needs that America is well grounded in the pursuit of liberty. And should the nation ever lose its freedom, it will do so only over the dead bodies of these editors, so to speak. They are today the "minute men" of freedom in an otherwise chaotic, regimented world.

RIDDLE OF AMERICA

Whether you choose to accept the unemployment figures of the American Federation of Labor, which reports 12,550,000 are out of work, or those of the National Industrial Conference board, claiming 9,848,000 unemployed, it is hard to avoid the riddle that these figures offer.

The riddle is simply this—while industrial production in the last two years increased 26 per cent, why did factory employment gain only 14 per cent?

Perhaps you can attribute the lag to technological advances, or to insufficient business recovery. Or there may be other factors.

It is admittedly a complex situation which must be fathomed before any permanent solution of the problem can be offered. And, to do this properly, a complete national unemployment census should go into the causes, as well as the extent, of unemployment.

THE PEOPLE LEARN

The full fury of the 1936 presidential campaign is upon us. John Public is caught in the madstrom of charge and counter-charge, and in the next six months he must decide whether he wants the New Deal for another four years.

Hence the important fact to the citizen going into the current campaign is that the whole story is available if he wants to study it. For 1936 marks a new high in the dissemination of campaign ballyhoo, and in the growth of interpretative comment.

Much of it, of course, is unfavorable to the administration, but under our American system, the administration has to take it and like it. And the same is true of the opposition.

Facts will out in this country, and the people can have them for the asking.

So as the current campaign rises in intensity, there emerges a more thoroughly informed and intelligent voter. That is the best safeguard of democracy we can hope to have.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Times watched brave Scouty ride the bumping cart, and Doty cried, "Stick with it, lad. The ride is rough, but don't fall to the ground."

"The bear is frisky as can be, and how you hang on I can't see. However, you are doing fine. I guess you're safe and sound."

"Aw," Scouty shouted, "Don't you fret. This bear can't shake me loose, I'll bet. I've ridden kicking bronches. This is really not so bad."

"In fact, it's really funny, but I'll be glad when we reach the hut. Gee, if the bear stops to stop there, it will be too bad."

The bear, however, soon tired out and when he heard we Scouty shout about loudly "Whoa!" he stopped still, and then sprawled upon the ground.

The old prospector ran up and exclaimed, "Oh, this has turned out grand. Some of you Times help me. Some burlap sacks must be found."

The Times rushed to haul them out. "Can you guess what it's all about?" the old man said. "I'm going to pack the nuggets right in these. "Then I won't lose them. That is smart. I know the bags won't fall apart. When this is done I can leave her most any time I please."

"Now, Times" load them to the top. Until you're finished do not stop. As soon as one is filled, call me. I'll hide it in my sack."

The girls and boys worked very fast. The old man watched them. Then, at last, brave Windy shouted, "One is filled. Take it, and hurry back."

Thus they worked on for quite a time, and little Doty said, "Gee, I'm real glad that our kind friend has all this gold. 'Twill bring real fun."

"Now he can travel 'round the land. The time he'll have will be just grand. It's his first chance to see most everything beneath the sun."

Since the early days of the Townsend Plan organization, our leader has requested you all to have petitions signed, and we have accumulated a vast number of such signatures. We now propose to bring these petitions to the national capital. The Townsend National Legion will sponsor a caravan of automobiles to carry that precious cargo from California to the District of Columbia. The caravan will leave Los Angeles on May 5th—the day Dr. F. E. Townsend has been subpoenaed to appear before the Bell investigating committee of the U. S. congress. Following is a

For a Small Family

This house in Muncie, Ind., was designed to fit the needs of a small family. Although the rooms are fairly small, they are arranged to give a maximum of floor and wall space. Houck & Hamilton designed the house, which was appraised by the Federal Housing Administration's valuation department at $4,850. The total value of the property, including the land, garage, and landscaping, was placed at $6,750. The kitchen is placed so that it is set off from the rest of the house, and the odor of cooking does not permeate the other rooms. The dining room has a built-in corner cupboard, and there are four large closets. The second floor may be finished at a later date, if the owner desires.

Brevity Remains Favorite as the Winner of Kentucky Derby

Louisville All Steamed Up Over Derby Day as Crowds Flock to City

At Least Fifteen Entries Ready For Classic

BULLETIN
Louisville, Ky., May 2—(AP)—Dneiper and Seventh Heaven were scratched today, reducing the Kentucky Derby entries to 17.

A light drizzle at Churchill Downs on the southern edge of the city and a drenching rain down town were followed by the sun breaking through the sultry haze.

Scratching of Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's gelding, which had been coupled with J. E. Widener's colt Brevity, the favorite, and of W. C. Goodloe's filly, Seventh Heaven, left 15 colts, one gelding and one filly. Seventh Heaven was a surprise entry at the last minute yesterday.

Louisville, Ky., May 2—(AP)—Tuned for the climax of America's greatest horse racing spectacle, but still shadow-boxing with the weather, the pick of the country's three-year-olds today waited the call to "boots and saddles" in the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby.

At least 15 of the 19 over-night entries, survivors of an original field of 102, appeared certain to start, rain or shine. Post time for the race, over the traditional mile and a quarter route at Churchill Downs, was 4:40 P. M. (CST).

The race itself, drawing to this blue grass capital the greatest throng since the post-war depression, will have a gross value of $50,150 with the winner receiving $39,725 net if all the over-night entries accept the issue. The field is one of the largest in recent years and is only three short of the record of 22 that faced the barrier in 1928 when Reigh Count won.

Pageantry Brilliant

The pageantry surrounding the classic was the most brilliant since the boom days of the last decade. Some 60,000 fans, from every walk of life, were expected to pack the rambling grandstand paralleling the quarter-mile stretch and wager close to $1,500,000 the largest amount in the last half-dozen years.

Thousands get only a fleeting glimpse of the horses, however, as they break from the barrier at the head of the stretch, swing past the grandstand fighting for a contending position and then take out over the remaining mile leading to riches and fame. Their knowledge of the race will come from the loud speakers but they will share the thrills that make the Derby more than a mere horse race.

The drive on Louisville, which started Monday and increased daily reached its crest this morning. Railroads, bus lines, airplanes and privately owned cars poured their passengers into an already crowded but gaily celebrating city.

It is hard to explain this Derby fever. The same horses run in richer races at other tracks later in the season but minus the glamor and furor that attends the Kentucky classic.

The weather man took an important part in the pre-race arguments. He predicted typical weather with showers in the afternoon. The track dried out rapidly yesterday but additional rain probably would make it sloppy for the big race.

Brevity Remains Choice

Despite unsubstantiated rumors that all was not well with J. E. Widener's colt, Brevity remained the firm choice to give the eastern sportsman his first Derby victory. Over a fast track, the bay flash stacks up as a 7 to 5 shot but come rain and his odds lengthen with the Bomar stable's mud-loving Grand Slam moving prominently into the picture.

Upon the condition of the track also hinged the size of the starting field. Banister was not expected to go if the racing strip is heavy. Leaving Bien Joli the lone color bearer of E. R. Bradley's green and white silks. Forest Play, strictly a fast track horse and stablemate of Grand Slam, Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Dneiper, one of the two geldings, and W. C. Goodloe's Seventh Heaven, which with the Gold Seeker represents the fillies, also were rated doubtful starters over a muddy or sloppy track.

In contrast several trainers were almost praying for rain and plenty of it. Grand Slam and A. C. Taylor's Indian Broom, the Canadian owned sensation, move up many pounds in the mud. Morton L. Schwartz's Gold Venture made the railbirds sit up and take notice a couple of days ago when he worked six furlongs in racing time of 1:13 1-5 in the slop.

Fitzsimmons, Holds Trumps
Regardless of track conditions, "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons holds the hand that may be very difficult to beat. The stars of his triple entry, William Woodward's Granville and Teufel from the Wheatley stable, have never raced in the mud but they are bred for such going.

Granville looks like the horse that

Blow to Tribe

Boston, May 2—(AP)—Stricken for the third time in less than a year by spinal meningitis, Bruce Campbell, regular right fielder of the Cleveland Indians and the club's best hitter, was in a serious condition today at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

He became ill Thursday night while the club was traveling from New York to Boston, and when he arrived here yesterday, Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, the Red Sox team physician, was called in to treat him.

Since Campbell's form of the disease is communicable, cultures of his teammates have taken by Dr. Frederick J. Bailey, of the Boston health department. If he deems it necessary, the entire Cleveland squad will be inoculated. The Indians are due to leave Boston tonight for Washington.

Brevity will have to beat. The Woodward star comes from a Derby family. His sire, Gallant Fox, won in 1930 under adverse conditions. Another son of the Fox, Omaha, came through last year with the rain pelting down.

If he runs true to the "Foxes", Granville may run all over the field in the stretch. He has more early foot than his sire or Omaha. Benefited by No. 6 post position, Jimmy Stout should have no trouble keeping Granville out of trouble in that wild quarter-mile dash for the first time.

Brevity was not so fortunate in the draw, getting No. 14, far out on the track where he will need all his famed early speed to keep from getting shut off. Flanking him are Grand Slam and Sangreal, the latter a speed gun from the barrier. Bold Venture breaks alongside Granville from No. 7 position.

Banister, Merry Pete, in to set the pace for Granville and Teufel and Indian Broom drew the inside positions. It should be no handicap for Indian Broom, however, as the son of Brooms has shown plenty of early foot.

Mrs. Silas B. Mason's He Did, William Dupont Jr.'s Gold Seeker, W. E. Schmidt's Holl Image, the other gelding, C. B. Shaffer's Coldstream and Mrs. B. Franzheim's Silas complete the field.

Elliott Major Scott of Washburn, Mo., was named by an act of the Missouri state legislature. The legislature of 1913, of which his father was a member carried motion that the baby be named in honor of Elliott Major, then governor of the state.

Former Winners Have Chance to Set New 500-Mile Race Records May 30th

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Four former winners are scheduled to start in the 24th running of the annual 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30 and at least two of them have the opportunity to make racing history.

Kelly Petillo, ex-truck driver who set a new average of 106.24 miles per hour in his victory drive last year, may be the first pilot to win successive races. The "King of the Ridge," a sobriquet the smiling young Italian picked up while driving a fruit truck over the difficult ridge route in California, will be a favorite in this year's race if he elects to step out as fast as he did last year.

WARM WEATHER GREET'S DERBY CROWDS TODAY

Peculiar Names of Race Horses Are Explained Too

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor.

Louisville, Ky., May 2—(AP)—Rain or no rain for the Derby today, they won't have to worry about ice forming on the wings of the high-flyers. . . . The 80-degree weather this year is a sharp and welcome contrast to the near-freezing discomforts of the 1935 race, in which Omaha "mushed" to victory. . . . The boys can get down to their shirt-sleeves in the bleachers or in the press coop for a change. . . .

The Downs has prepared for its biggest overflow in at least a half dozen years, with more places to eat, drink and bet than ever before. . . . They have a cafeteria for the eat-and-run customers. . . . Surplus scribbles must work on the roof for the best. . . . From now on its a la carte and every man or horse for himself. . . . Mint juleps are priced at $1 until the last special pulls out. . . .

Late-comers, finding the better hotels accommodations starting at $20 per day and nothing available at that price or double, made a night of it at approximately the same cost. . . .

What's In a Name?

What's in a name, especially if it's a race horse? . . . Everybody knows Col. E. R. Bradley has an unbreakable custom of picking names for his thoroughbreds beginning with "B" but other owners are not so systematic. . . . Brevity, the favorite, is an obvious monicker. . . .

Owner Joseph E. Widener has every reason to be confident his colt will live up to his name and make short work of the Derby. . . . Brevity's tentative running mate, Dneiper, is named after a river in Russia. . . . And may run as slowly, if at all. . . . Granville, William Woodward's prime contender, apparently had his name suggested by that of the colt's dam, Gravita. . . .

Merry Pete, of course is by Pete Wreck out of Merry Vixen. . . . Indian Broom, by Brooms and Kawita, also was named by the old-fashioned family system. . . . And Teufel (the Devil) is a Diavolo colt. . . . The same family but a different language. . . .

There's a human interest story behind the fact Raymond (Sonny) Workman, contract rider for C. V. Whitney, will be astride Grand Slam, Jack Bryson, regular jockey for the Bomar stable of Detroit, was due to handle the mud-running colt. . . . But after finishing third with Grand Slam in the Derby trial Bryson went to Trainer Emmet Potts, told him he thought the colt needed a stronger "hand rider" and suggested Workman. . . .

The low-born Thibetan, on meeting a superior, does not touch his cap in English fashion. He takes off his hat, holds it in both hands, slightly inclines his head forward and puts out his tongue, at the same time making a slight sucking noise. . . .

Spring-tail insects jump considerable distances by releasing a spring at the rear end of the body. . . .

Boston Catcher Ousted Gehring as Leader in American

New York, May 2—(AP)—Bill Terry, New York Giants, and Rick Ferrell, Boston Red Sox, whose teams are topping the National and American Leagues, respectively, today are sitting on top of the major league batting averages.

Terry's percentage of .520 is high above Ferrell's .439, but Ferrell has had more chances to miss than Colonel Bill. The youngster has been at bat 57 times, while Bill, given to sitting in the dugout in respect to a pair of aging knees, has only been up there swinging 25 times.

Ferrell replaced Charley Gehring of the Tigers at the head of the American League list during the week, but Charley is still in the runner-up position, 20 points back of Rick with a mark of .419. The 10 leaders in each league including Friday games follow:

MOSES GROVE REAPPEARS AS BALL FIGURE

Has Given Only One Earned Run Last 33 1-3 Games

BY ANDY CLARKE

Associated Press Sports Writer

That gangling old man from Lonaconing, Md., 36-year-old Robert Moses Grove, is being discovered again. The boys are dusting off all the old superlatives for him, unused since the last time they discovered him. They are talking about how fast he is, and how much wiser.

The figures may be a little too cold to speak about Mr. Grove's wisdom, but they're eloquent enough. He has pitched 33 1-3 innings for the Red Sox and has given exactly one earned run. He has given 21 hits in four games, all of which he won. He beat the Cleveland Indians yesterday, giving up seven hits, walked not a single man and fanned nine.

While they were beating the Indians, 6-0, yesterday, the Red Sox, moreover were getting 10 hits. This was a particularly poor day at bat for the team. Starting last Tuesday, they have hit 16, 13, 18, and 10, for an average of 14 1-2, so it is little wonder that the Red Sox are on top of the pile.

Fine Performances

The day was one on which nearly every game was featured by a fine pitching performance. Dizzy Dean pitched three-hit ball as the Cardinals slugged out a 12-0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers; Johnny Broaca, finishing his first game in four starts, held the Chicago White Sox to seven hits as the Yankees won 3-2, and Jimmy Deshong of the Senators pitched five-hit ball as Washington walloped the Browns, 17-1.

Wayne Osborne turned in seven innings of high class hurling as the Boston Bees defeated the Pirates 6-4. Lee Grissom, lefthander making his first start for the Reds, pitched Cincinnati to a 4-3 win over the Phillies. Eldon Auker of the Detroit Tigers won his own ball game when he singled in the sixth to score the winning run in a 4-3 victory over the Athletics and pitched eight-hit ball to boot.

The Giants-Cubs game was rained out.

Rain prevented the holding of the triangular track and field meet between Dixon, Depue and Princeton at Princeton Friday afternoon. The meet was postponed until a later date. Women's Bowling Champ To Begin Title Defense

Omaha, Neb., May 2—(AP)—

Marie Warmbier, defending singles and all-events champion, today was scheduled to make her first appearance in this year's international women's bowling tournament.

Last year she shot 1911 for nine games to establish a tournament record for all-events. She shot 652 in the singles. The record in this event 712, was established in 1934 by Marie Clemensen of Chicago.

Today's program includes entries from Davenport, Ia.; Waukegan, Peoria, Moline and Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., and Neenah, Wis.

Ross Makes Easy Work of Woods By Fifth Round Kayo

Louisville, Ky., May 2—(AP)—

Any notion that Chuck Woods entertained at getting a welterweight title shot had been knocked from his head today by Champion Barney Ross, who polished off the Detroit fighter in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round non-title fight last night.

Woods made two trips to the floor in the final round and was out so cold when he hit the canvas the last time that Referee Jack Dempsey didn't even go through the formality of a count. Ross weighed 142 pounds and Woods 148 1-2.

DRIVING TESTS MAY CONTINUE ANOTHER WEEK

Extension of Examinations Depends on Reaction of Public

Hundreds of persons of Dixon and vicinity availed themselves the last two days of the opportunity to take driving tests under the auspices of the Chicago Motor Club. The tests were held in the carrier boys' room of the Telegraph.

Designed to ascertain for each person his or her potential abilities as a driver the tests, covering a wide range of territory, are gaining more and more in favor with taxicab, bus, and transit companies who have many drivers responsible for their large fleets of vehicles.

It was announced here Friday that Beiers bakery truck drivers, I. N. U. Co., drivers, and Reynolds Wire Co. truckmen had all been asked to take the tests, the I. N. U. Co. making them compulsory for its drivers. If the tests are proving satisfactory and popular all those desiring them to be continued another week are asked to call the Dixon branch office of the Chicago Motor Club and register their desire by phone.

Cover All Phases

Conducted by means of mechanical devices and operated by intelligent high school boys under the supervision of a trained engineer who analyzes the results, the tests cover such phases as reaction time, activity, motor coordination, speed estimation, strength of grip, blood pressure, glare resistance, perimeter of vision, acuity of vision, tests for phorias, depth perception, color perception, and hearing.

In different portions of the country high schools are beginning to establish driver safety classes to inculcate good driving habits into high school youths. It is expected that by this method the annual traffic death toll can be pared from 36,000 persons to about half that appalling figure.

FORMER BUREAU CO. MAN GOING BACK TO PRISON

DeKalb People Hopeful "Edward Penner" is Granted Pardon

DeKalb—Assured that he has many friends in this community who will make efforts to secure his pardon, John Denner, known here as Edward Penner, was today en route, in the custody of a deputy, to the Ohio state prison at Columbus where he will begin serving the remainder of a life sentence for murder. His wife, formerly Mrs. Hattie Cadie of this city, plans to go to Ohio in a short time and attempt an interview with the governor in the hope that a pardon will be given her husband.

Denner, serving a life sentence for the murder of a brother-in-law during a quarrel, had served sixteen years of his sentence when he walked away from the prison brick yards at Roseville, Ohio, nearly six years ago. Denner has lived in DeKalb for the past sixteen months, living a model life and molesting no one.

May Get Pardon.
According to Sheriff O. N. Larson the prison deputy who came here for the fugitive, is said to have made the comment that the fact that Denner has led a clean, upright life since his escape and has made every effort possible to live within the law will help greatly in securing a hearing for him in connection with a pardon. The deputy was given a complete story of Denner's life since he fled the prison.

Denner is not resentful. He is glad, in a way that it is all over. To know that you are a fugitive from justice, always being hunted, preys on your mind, he said, and there wasn't a day since he escaped that he hasn't feared being detected. Now that he is going back he hopes that his life during the past six years has been such that the governor will relent and grant him a pardon.

"I am sorry for him," stated Sheriff O. N. Larson in commenting on his recent prisoner of two days. "He was going along, minding his own business and making every effort possible to live within the law. To my knowledge he has not been in any trouble since he escaped."

"He gave me a complete statement, listing every place in which he has resided since he left and giving me the names of people for whom he has worked. I gave the prison deputy a copy of that statement before they departed, and the deputy told me that such a statement will do much to help him in securing a pardon."

Denner recently leased eight acres of land in addition to the three and a half acres he owns and he was well along in his garden. He already had planted 67 quarts of onion sets and has seven bushels of late potatoes ready to plant. It was also learned that Denner had recently been promised a job that would have provided him employment for some time. He also expected to return to work at the Snell. Mrs. Forrest Mercer will be hostess to the club on Tuesday, May 12.

EXCEL CLUB
Members of the Excel club will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Nagle. A one o'clock luncheon will be served, followed by three tables of bridge.

LECTURE AT CHURCH
Rev. Horowitz and Miss Minerva Ann Place will give a joint lecture on "The Holy Land" at 7 o'clock Sunday evening at St. Matthews Lutheran church.

PRINCETON HOME BUREAU MEMBERS PLAN MEETINGS AND SPLENDID PROGRAMS

The work of the Home Bureau continues to interest its members and a number of activities are scheduled for the coming week. Mrs. Marie Daugherty, Home Bureau advisor, gave a lesson on the making of chair and slip covers, demonstrating her talk, and Mrs. Cowley conducted a lesson on "Legal Information." Roll call was answered with exchange of plants. Mrs. S. G. Brown will entertain the club May 28th, the lesson topic to be "Household Linen."

Miss Edna Walls of the Home Economics department of the University of Illinois will hold a meeting at 1:15 next Friday afternoon at the Home Bureau Office. Her topic will be "Essentials of Growth in Family Living." All interested are invited to attend.

canning plant this summer, being employed there last summer.

Many people in this community have expressed sympathy for Denner and have expressed the hope that he will be able to secure a pardon. He will be welcome in this city should he secure a pardon. They feel that after serving sixteen years he has paid, in a measure, for the crime for which he was sent to prison, and that his life during the past six years has been such that leniency should be shown. Many of the larger newspapers have also taken an interest in the case and have expressed similar sentiment.

A photograph of Denner was seen in a detective magazine by Robert Coulter of this city and he recognized the picture as that of Edward Penner and he gave the original tip which resulted in the arrest Wednesday morning of the man.

Lee County Federation of Women's Clubs

The annual spring convention for the Lee County Federation of Women's Clubs was held here on Wednesday in the Methodist church with an all day meeting. Mrs. Herbert Parker president of the Lee County Federated Clubs, presided.

Rev. L. E. Winter opened the convention with prayer, after which the roll was called, each president responded by giving their outstanding project of the year. This was followed by a short business session at which Mrs. Vernon Smith of Ashton was elected secretary-treasurer, taking the place of Mrs. Thompson who resigned.

A motion picture playlette was given by Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Deutsch of Dixon, Mrs. Laura Nelles of West Brooklyn, Mrs. Vernon Smith of Ashton and Mrs. Harry Patterson of Franklin Grove.

Mrs. Annie M. Dow of Hinsdale very charmingly gave a review of "The Exile" by Pearl Buck. The girl's glee club of the Franklin Grove Community high school favored with two songs. The girls' glee club was at its best Wednesday and many words of praise were heard from the visiting ladies for the glee club. Mrs. Beatrice accompanied them at the piano. This closed the morning session.

The Aid society of the Methodist church served a most delightful luncheon. The afternoon session found a much larger gathering than in the morning, there being over seventy-five present. This session was opened by Postmaster George Fruit and Lowell Trottnow who rendered several duets on their piano accompanions. There were encores which showed their music was appreciated, such as is always the case where they play. They are becoming very popular. Miss Margaret Marchmont of Milwaukee, of the U. S. Forest Reserve, was next on the program. Her talk was very interesting and furnished much food for thought. She put much stress on the fact that work of the forest preserves and rebuilds not only our forests but our wild life is preserved, as well, and the lives of our boys and men in the CCC camps and forest preserves on the wide open ranges.

The Lee County Chorus of twenty-five voices under the direction of Mrs. Nangle of Paw Paw favored with several selections. Mrs. Jennings of Ashton accompanied at the piano. This chorus will also sing at the district meeting to be held in Sterling.

The main speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Annie M. Dow, was then introduced. Mrs. Dow would need no introduction to a Franklin Grove audience. Several years ago she was a teacher in the local school and will be remembered as Miss Annie Maybanks. While here she was united in marriage to a Franklin Grove young man, Fred L. Dow. It has been our good fortune that they have always made their home near Chicago, and not so many miles from the "old home town" which they love to visit. Mrs. Dow has a very charming personality which at once captivates her audience. Her talk, "Sun Dials and Old Fashioned Gardens" is one that will linger long in the minds of those who heard her. She had with her a sun dial which she used to illustrate her talk. The only means the primitive man had of telling the time was by the sun dial. In the older countries it is still used. She brought out the fact that it is really more correct than any time piece. "When there is a shadow there is a sun higher up."

Nowdays the sun dial is used in gardens and rock gardens. Mrs. Dow quoted several beautiful inscriptions which were found on various sun dials she had seen. In her talk about Old Fashioned Gardens she brought forth the idea that gardens serve a threefold purpose. They used to be used for utility, to grow herbs. From the primitive Indian folks learned to grow their own medicine in their gardens. Secondly, for health. To grow the vegetables. To get hands into the soil and to get close to mother earth and nature, no better tonic can be found. 3rd, for beauty. All gardens are beautiful. Every gardener works out his own individuality in his particular garden, in the flowers he raises and the color scheme he uses. It was indeed very interesting to learn where some of our well known flowers originated or came from and where they secured their names. Mrs. Dow made each of her listeners feel like going home to her garden, getting her hands into the soil, creating the beautiful, and in so doing getting nearer to the God of nature.

The convention was declared one of the very best ever held.

On Sunday evening a special free will offering will be taken for the Presbyterian churches in the eastern part of the nation which have suffered by the destruction of the floods. Some churches need to be rebuilt, some need to be repaired; some need new furnishings and equipment, some pastors and their families need assistance. Give freely.—C. P. Blecking, pastor.

Brethren Church
Rev. H. A. Studebaker, brother of the local pastor, will be the guest speaker Sunday evening. Mr. Studebaker is a very fine pulpit man. You will appreciate hearing him. He is pastor of the Second Congregational church in Beloit, Wis., a church of about 1200 members.

There were two large, appreciative audiences last Sunday morning and evening. The Sunday morning attendance was larger than Easter Sunday. That is indeed gratifying and encouraging when folks come to church and Sunday school without having anything special to bring them. We were delighted Sunday evening with the very fine play given by the Lanark church, "Into Thy Kingdom." This was an exchange program. Our choir will return a program late this spring or summer.

What's the Matter With You?
By Georgia Peterman

So many times we are asked to do something and we say, "Oh, let Jim, he can do it so much better than I can." Apparently this is a water-tight excuse, but in slang, that's what you think. What's the matter with you doing some of the unpleasant or more difficult jobs? How do you think that Jim got so good at that thing? He practiced and worked, of course. You may not be able to do the thing that Jim can do, but you can do something. Find that thing, big or small, and then put all you've got into it. Never give less than the most. You'll find that you can do something well, too. When this time comes it brings a whole new life and outlook with it. The scene shifts and you find that you are a high-powered automobile going some place instead of a 1925 model limping along on two cylinders. Life is interesting and never bores you. You belong some place, you are comfortable and never have to face the awful job of inventing a good excuse, of which there aren't any.

G. A. A.
Last Thursday the G. A. A. met on the baseball diamond. The teams was divided up and then they began to play in earnest. Balls were knocked right and left and even home runs were made. For the meeting Thursday another baseball game is planned.

Baseball Team
The F. G. H. S. baseball team journeyed to Steward Wednesday, April 22, but came home defeated. The boys made several good hits which brought home nine runs, but Steward also was hitting and the final score of 18 to 9 in favor of Steward. Thursday, April 30, the boys went to Lee Center. The results will be announced next week.

Math and Science
The members of the business arithmetic class have been writing notes and borrowing from each other and then discussing the notes.

The biology class has been studying about some ancient biology. They are studying the unwritten history of the earth as told by the rocks and fossils. This includes a study of plants and animals which once lived on the earth, such as dinosaurs and the trilobites, which are now extinct.

The physics class has been studying this last week the principles and fundamentals of sound and music.

Spectator
Senior play is coming along fine. The play has an unusual plot and is very humorous. Then too, misuses are frequent and bright cracks are added. The cast enjoys the play themselves and will recommend it to any one. It is scheduled for presentation at the camp grounds May 22.

Speaking of plays, the Ashton senior class deserves a banquet for "The Panther's Claw," presented at the Mills & Petrie memorial last Friday. The play was unusual and the actors showed that their training had been excellent.

Track practice is going fine on these warm days. Tuesday, Dave did a little over 20 feet in the broad jump. A week from last Thursday while practicing Ralph pulled a tendon, which of course, heals slowly. No trip to Urbana was made, because of this and the inability of several other boys to go. Ralph will be ready in time our next home meet and especially the state district meet. Tomorrow, Saturday, Dave is entered in the broad jump and Albert Wendel in the half mile at the Clinton relay, Clinton, Ia.

Ralph may run if his leg is all right. This is a very fast meet and to have him invited to enter is an honor. The Freshmen return party is scheduled to be held Friday night. It promises to be a joyous occasion for many are planning to go. We'll see what the Freshies can do in the line of parties.

Wednesday morning a fire drill was held. Time spent in getting out was about 25 seconds better than last year. Practice makes perfect. And, speaking of fires, the school agrees that it is hard luck to lose your home as Neida Fuller and Mary Hall have done. There are always things lost that you value highly and it leaves an empty feeling when you realize that they are gone. Many of you people out in the country have spent money and work obtaining fine buildings, and a modern home. Then, suddenly, all the labor goes up in flames. What do you have left? Better fire fighting equipment would have probably decreased the loss in many recent fires.

Mr. Cozzens, our Ag. teacher, has been out of school this week with an attack of bronchial pneumonia. We hope he's back soon.

The Girls' Glee club sang at the district meeting of the Woman's club Wednesday morning.

Biology class has been studying fish. Some "fish" stories are being told.

A certain high school boy is worried about the mystery of the missing ring. Lost—one ring as good as new. Finders, keepers; losers, weepers.

We enjoyed some of the F. F. A. banquet. Thank you.

Spectator II
The editor seems quite happy lately. He also has been shining up the car after school. Why? I have a pretty good idea.

Several people keep wondering why they can't ever get a chance to get back at the Spectator. Try, try again and maybe you'll get a chance.

Well the Freshies are finally getting good by giving us our party Friday.

Its quite bad, we think, when you get to standing and talking by the hour to HER mother—En?

Accidents will happen! Was a Junior boy tired of life when he fell 15 feet to the barn floor? Or did Beans push him?

The General Science class has a new teacher for the week and they have about decided that he'll do. Even if they have been ordered to have a good lesson for the visitors.

Sometimes Junior girls have their seats changed if they whisper too much.

A serious accident happened Sunday afternoon. A Freshman girl was severely injured, bruised, lacerated and cut when she hit loose gravel with her (?) bicycle.

Wednesday morning all that could be heard in school was a continuous rustling. The girls wore their contest dresses.

Have you noticed Mr. Fox's new hat—especially designed for rain-storms.

Baseball
Our baseball team plays Creston here on Monday, May 6; on May 7th we play Steward here. On May 14 we play Creston there.

Junior English
The Juniors are studying short stories, now. Books and magazines are the source of their extensive reading.

Modern poetry will be the next subject studied by the Juniors.

Future Farmers Banquet
The Future Farmers held their Father and Sons banquet at the high school April 23. Six of the Home Ec girls and their instructor served the meal. The following program was given after the banquet:

Welcome—Gerald Emmert.
Vocational Agriculture in Our School—Robert Mattern.

Helps from Vocational Agriculture—Ira Buck.
The speaker of the evening was Dr. Nolan.

Mr. Cozzens acted as toastmaster. Everyone declared having a perfect evening. The Future Farmers wish to thank the Home Ec class for their work.

Debate Club Holds Party
The Debate club held their party at Miss Schmidt's home Wednesday night. This party has had to be postponed before on account of other interference.

Ten members were present. Monopoly was the chief interest for that night. Pop corn, sandwiches and cocoa were the refreshments. Everyone present enjoyed themselves very much.

Senior Play Progressing
The Senior play, directed by Marie Schmidt is progressing very nicely. Next week they will start working on the third act.

The title of the play, which will be given May 22 at the Camp Grounds is "Hubert the Great."

Juniors Send Out Invitations
The Juniors have sent out invitations for the Junior-Senior banquet. The invitations are attractively made in the form of a World Tour ticket. May 8 is the date set for this banquet. The Juniors have not told the Seniors where it will be held, and are the Seniors worried!

BURNS FATAL TO THREE
Buffalo, N. Y., May 2.—(AP)—Three sons of Mrs. Anna Snyder, trapped with her in their flaming house Thursday, died Friday. The mother was reported in a critical condition. The boys were Irving, 23, Bernard, 9, and Gerald, 7.

HORNER-KELLY SPLIT IS STILL EVIDENT TODAY

Booing Drowned Out
Harmony Talk at Convention

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—(AP)—
The Horner-Kelly split in the Democratic party was still evident today in the aftermath of the turbulent Democratic state convention, where booing almost drowned out the harmony talk.

Gov. Horner and the other nominees were "solemnly and wholeheartedly" endorsed for re-election in the platform adopted at the fairgrounds coliseum.

But first he was booed for several minutes by Chicago delegates who had supported Mayor Edward J. Kelly's effort to defeat the governor in the primary.

In contrast to the booing, which broke out frequently during the proceedings yesterday afternoon, was a long and deafening demonstration by the Chicagoans
when Kelly and County Chairman Patrick A. Nash preceded Horner to the platform.

In the compromise efforts to establish surface harmony, the governor was able to block the re-nomination of Walter W. Williams of Benton as a university trustee.

Both Supported Ickes

Horner men also got half of the 32 quarter-vote places as delegates-at-large to the national convention. Both sides elected Interior Secretary Ickes as a delegate without an argument, but the convention was delayed an hour and a half over Williams and Judge Harry M. Fisher of Chicago.

Williams and Fisher both supported Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who was forgotten during the convention, as the Kelly-Nash candidate for governor. Williams was charged with coercing WPA workers to vote for Bundesen. The governor's long friendship with Fisher ended during the campaign.

Convention hall reports were that Horner objected to both men but consented to let Fisher be a delegate-at-large, in return for the dropping of Williams.

Booed Lustily

The Chicago delegates, who had almost two-thirds control of the convention and easily drowned out the downstate Horner men, booed when the governor announced that his fight for permanent registration of Chicago voters had only begun.

Horner and Nash shook hands several times on the platform, but the governor and Kelly continued their aloofness. The governor didn't refer to his "bossism" campaign charges against Kelly, but said:

"We must stand together, if we are to stand securely. x x x We want party cohesion for the sake of what party co-operation can achieve for the state and the nation. We want leadership. But we want leadership chiefly for the sake of going forward to the accomplishment of public good."

The compromise platform listed no "planks" ignored such issues as Eastern Standard time and permanent registration, endorsed all congressional and state Democratic officials and said their record for supporting the Roosevelt administration would be the basis for asking another victory at the November election.

Rep. Benjamin S. Adamowski, the young Kelly man who was permanent chairman, agreed with the Horner keynote, John E.
Cassidy of Peoria, that the April 14 primary was a mandate for the Democrats to give the governor solid backing.

The Democratic nominees for university trustees are Homer Mattams of Urbana, Louis C. Mos-chel of Pekin and James Cleary of Chicago. Adams was the defeated Horner candidate for auditor.

During the cheering and booing,
the convention repeatedly lauded the Roosevelt administration and urged independent Republicans to support the Democratic ticket.

DAILY HEALTH

THE TIME TO VACCINATE.
Unquestionably the greatest triumph of modern scientific medicine is that of smallpox vaccination. The present generation of men are in no position to appreciate the ravages which were once inflicted by this horrible disease.

To gather any idea of the toll in life and disfigurement which small-pox exacted, one must turn to history. The eloquent pen of Lord Macaulay thus described smallpox:

"That disease, over which science has since achieved a succession of glorious and beneficent victories, was formerly the most terrible of all ministers of death. The havoc of the plague had been far more rapid; but plague had visited our shores only once or twice within living memory; and the smallpox was always present, filling the churchyards with corpses, tormenting with constant fears all whom it had not yet stricken, leaving on those whose lives it spared the hideous traces of its power, turning the babe into a changeling at which the mother shuddered, making the eyes and the cheeks of the betrothed maiden-objects of horror to the lover."

The triumph of science over this minister of death stands to the eternal credit of Jenner. Smallpox vaccination spared man the hazards of the disease. However, to profit most completely and with the least risk by vaccination, it should be administered during the first year of life. The evident exception to this counsel, of course, is in the instance of emergency vaccination necessitated by the appearance of smallpox in the community.

Vaccination is urged during the first year of life because in a small, insignificant percentage of cases, smallpox vaccination given at a later stage in life may be complicated by the appearance of what is known as a post-vaccinal encephalitis.

Another counsel for the escape of this complication is to administer smallpox vaccination after a child has been immunized against diphetheria.

VANDENBERG TO BE NOMINATED
BY FITZGERALD

Lansing, Mich., May 2.—(AP)— Michigan's governor, Frank D. Fitzgerald, will present the name of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg to the Republican national convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination, with the authorization of the Michigan Senator.

Howard C. Lawrence, chairman of the Republican state central committee, said today that Vandenberg had written to the governor asking that he make the nominating speech, and adding: "The Michigan delegation may have a great influence on the convention."

The Michigan Republican convention last week instructed its delegation to the national convention to present the name of Vandenberg,
but the letter from the Michigan Senator contained the first definite indication that he has more than passive interest in his chances for the nomination.

Fitzgerald said, however, that Vandenberg would not announce himself as a candidate at any time.
In his nominating speech, the governor said, he will stress the fact that the Michigan Senator is not offered as a competitive candidate.

LARGE NAVY MEN WIN FIGHT OVER CAPITAL SHIPS

House Voted Biggest
Peace Time Fund
Yesterday

Washington, May 2.—(AP)—Advocates for the biggest peacetime appropriation for the navy jubilantly looked today for quick senate approval after their victory in the house yesterday.

The measure, bearing $531,068,707 and a conditional authorization for two new giant battleships, sped through the house without a record vote. Rep. Marcantonio (R-N. Y.) and some midwestern farm members fought to delete the battleship clause, but their drive was smashed, 212 to 73.

The bill provides that the two great capital ships, eventually to cost $102,000,000, may be started if any other signer of the recent London naval treaty begins the construction of similar vessels.

Marcantonio, fighting this, exclaimed "we are arming for an imperialistic war" and objected that the provision was put forward without hearings.

The house appropriations committee inserted it because the new naval treaty does not forbid the construction of capital ships between 17,500 and 35,000 tons. Dispatches from London have told of British plans to build ships of the 35,000-ton maximum.

Not Yet Submitted.

The treaty has not yet been submitted to the senate for ratification, although President Roosevelt indicated yesterday that he might transmit it shortly. Senate leaders indicated uncertainty as to whether the pact would be ratified this session.

The house appropriations committee, in submitting the navy bill, advocated a navy "second to none."

The measure provides, among other things, for 18 new vessels, smaller than battleships; 333 new airplanes, and a boost in the enlisted force from 93,500 to 100,000 men. Marines would be increased from 18,000 to 17,000.

The navy will have more than $600,000,000 for next year if the bill passes. In addition to the new money it provides, there are carryovers from previous appropriations and a $13,000,000 airplane contract authorization.

FOLLY and FAREWELL

By Marie Blizard
© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
LINDA BOURNE, 20 years old, pretty, is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father.
PETER CARTER, newspaper reporter, helps her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with him. CARTER, but he goes abroad to study singing. When Peter asks her to marry him she refuses, but postpones the wedding.

HONEY HARMON, film star, comes to New York, taking a "personal appearance" tour. Peter goes to interview her and tries to interest her in a play he has written. He breaks a date with Linda, arrives late to announce,
"Honey Harmon has bought your scenario."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER X
LINDA looked at Peter Gardner when he said he had sold her scenario as though he had said he had found the missing pearls which she had never owned.

"Peter, have you been drinking?" she demanded.

"Only elixir of the gods," he said. "Now, young lady, let us step into the library while I break the news to you very gently."

"Will you please tell me what you're talking about?" she demanded, not moving a step.

"Yes, ma'am," he said patiently. "That's what I'm leading up to. On the occasion of our second meeting, you gave me a scenario to read. True, I practically took it away from you. Remember the one you said you wrote 'in fun' for a Hollywood magazine contest?"

Linda nodded and sat down on the lowest step.

"Well, that's the one."

"That's the one what?"

Peter took her hand. "Shall I wipe the cobwebs away, dearest?
Please try to understand me. I have been playing Sir Walter Raleigh, Lord Chesterfield and what-not to Honey Harmon for a whole week. All for a purpose
. . . Just in time, Peter remembered and stopped. He wasn't going to tell Linda he had tried to sell his play to the movie star or that he had changed her scenario to make it salable.

"And so when she saw your scenario she was delighted and offers $5000 for it."

"Five thousand dollars for that trash?"

"Trash?" Peter assumed a surprised attitude. "Surely you don't consider that trash? My dear child, you have an epic . . ."

"Epic, my eye," Linda retorted flegmatically. "It's a cheap little story about a stenographer and
. . ."

"And one boss who is a Menjou and the other a Gable. And you speak of trash!"

"BUT it isn't fair, Pete. Things like that don't happen.
There must be some justice in things. That story can't be worth $5000!"

"Linda, it's worth more to Honey, and if Hollywood bought it, it would be worth more to Honey."

"Not yet, Honey, but I'm going to be. I'm going to marry a girl who doesn't belong in Hollywood and she . . . well, she feels the way I do. We both like this little town. We're newspaper people and we belong here. You see,

I can't go away."

"Oh, Pete, you're not married yet and besides if she had a chance to go to Hollywood without you, I'll bet she'd go."

STORIES IN STAMPS

IN DEFENSE OF THE UNION

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD Daniel Webster could not find his tongue when called upon to speak before his class. Yet that frightened schoolboy became America's most brilliant orator, and greatest defender of a united nation.

Born in 1782, probably the first of the log-cabin school of statesmen, Webster took to the law and entered Congress in 1813. For most of the next 37 years he served as representative and senator from Massachusetts, and twice became secretary of state. His oratory was supreme. His opponents could not face his withering logic. Yet, with all his brilliance, he twice failed to attain the presidency.

The climax of his oratorical career was his famous reply to South Carolina's senator, Robert Y. Hayne, who had threatened secession in his opposition to a protective tariff. Rising in defense of the Union, Webster held his listeners spellbound for four hours, and ended with the memorable words, "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

In 1902, a Daniel Webster stamp was issued, on the 50th anniversary of his death. In 1932, another stamp commemorated the 150th anniversary of Webster's birth.

The courtesies of the nineties added gaiety to the thirties when the officers of the Mounted Morris Eastern Star re-enacted a meeting of the order as it was held fifty years ago.
